

EXAMPLES FOR THE TRAINER

Employees of the project management department faced the challenge of improving the data collection process for new projects. The employees' job is to improve the current process so that it is more convenient for people who work remotely.

Try to generate as many ideas as possible about what such a process should look like by looking at the problem from different perspectives.

Can anything be changed? Use the brainstorming method to generate as many ideas as possible.

part 2

